REPORTER ED SARDELLA: "A man in Park County says he's a former C.I.A. agent and someone is out to get him because of his past. William Plumley's house was burned down a few days ago and he says that's only the latest in a series of events that convinces him someone is after him because of his C.I.A. activities.

"Plumley says he piloted aircraft into Cuba during the sixties in support of Cuban rebels. He claims that those who know of his past are responsible for leaving threatening notes in his home, stealing documents from him and for beating him up outside a bar in Evergreen, and he says he'll expose these people in a book he's now writing called 'The Black Knights of Cuba.' But there are skeptics who think it's just all a publicity stunt on Plumley's part. Police don't know what to believe."
